

Supreme Court Bible Opinion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here are excerpts from majority and minority opinions in the 8-1 Supreme Court decision yesterday declaring public school prayers unconstitutional.

Justice Thomas C. Clark's Majority Opinion

It is true that religion has been closely identified with our history and government . . . the fact that the founding fathers believed devoutly that there was a God and that the unalienable rights of man were rooted in Him is clearly evidenced in their writings, from the Mayflower Compact to the constitution itself.

This background is evidenced today in our public life through the continuance in our oaths of office from the presidency to the alderman of the final supplication, "so help me God."

Likewise each house of the Congress provides through its chaplain an opening prayer, and the sessions of this court are declared open by the cleric in a short ceremony, the final phrase of which invokes the grace of God.

Again, there are such manifestations in our military forces, where those of our citizens who are under the restrictions of military service wish to engage in voluntary worship.

Indeed, only last year an official survey of the country indicated that 64 per cent of our people have church membership . . . while less than 3 per cent profess no religion whatever . . .

This is not to say, however, that religion has been so identified with our history and government that religious freedom is not likewise as strongly imbedded in our public and private life . . .

This freedom to worship was indispensable in a country whose people came from the four quarters of the earth and brought with them a diversity of religious opinion. Today authorities list 33 separate religious bodies, each with membership exceeding 50,000 existing among our people, as well as innumerable smaller groups . . .

. . . first, this court has decisively settled that the first amendment's mandate that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof" has been made wholly applicable to the states by the fourth amendment.

Second, this court has rejected unequivocally the contention that the establishment clause forbids only governmental preference of one religion over another. Almost 20 years ago the court said that "neither a state nor the federal government can set up a church. Neither can pass laws which aid one religion, aid all religions, or prefer one religion over another." . . .

While none of the parties of these cases has questioned these basic conclusions of the court, both of which have been long established, recognized and consistently reaffirmed, others continue to question their history, logic and efficacy. Such contentions, in the light of the consistent interpretation in cases of this court, seem entirely untenable and of value only to those who prefer one religion over another . . .

Justice Potter Stewart's Minority Opinion

. . . the dangers both to government and to religion inherent in official support of instruction in the tenets of various religious sects are absent in the present cases, which involved only a reading from the Bible unaccompanied by comments, which might otherwise constitute instruction.

Indeed, since from all that appears in either record, any teacher who does not wish to do so is free not to participate, it cannot even be contended that some infinitesimal part of the salaries paid by the state are made contingent by the state are made contingent upon the performance of a religious function.

In the absence of evidence that the legislature or school board intended to prohibit local schools from substituting a different set of readings where parents requested such a change, we should not assume that the provisions before us—as actually administered—may not be construed simply as authorizing religious exercises, nor that the designations may not be treated simply as indications of the promulgating body's view as to the community's preference.

GOP, JFK Agree

Kennedy Proposes Interfaith Councils

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy proposed Monday the establishment of an interfaith committee to help bring about better racial relations of a community-by-community basis.

The Rev. Dan Potter, executive director of the Protestant Council of the City of New York, told newsmen this was a highlight of a White House meeting between Kennedy and approximately 250 religious leaders from all parts of the country.

The meeting came a few hours after Kennedy had conferred anew with leaders of both parties in Congress and a Republican leader had reported an area of agreement" had been reached on new civil rights legislation.

Potter said the President's recommendation for an interfaith racial committee drew "a very enthusiastic response."

Two Negro leaders who have been active in demonstrations in the South, however, took the position that the interfaith committee suggestion would not solve the problem — that more action and leadership are required of the federal government.

The Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy of Atlanta, Ga., representing the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and the Rev. Fred Shuttlesworth of Revelation Baptist Church, Cincinnati, Ohio, joined in saying that more than a committee is needed.

The White House announced the President will send his legislative recommendations to Congress on Wednesday.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he believes there is an "area of agreement" between Republicans and administration leaders on some of the proposals Kennedy will present in Wednesday's message to Congress.

Dirksen said he could not support one proposal, which would require the integration of private business establishments. This suggestion has brought angry protests from Southern Democrats, who describe it as an invasion of private property rights.

"I think there is an area of agreement on a number of items," Dirksen said. "I believe Sen. Mansfield and I will be able to join in sponsoring a program."

Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Despite strength in rails, the stock market worked irregularly lower Monday. Volume was the lowest since late March.

President Kennedy's intervention, which blocked the threat of an early rail strike, was a tonic for the rails which advanced early in the day but closed below their best.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average declined 3.82 to 718.21.

Turnover shrank to 3.52 million shares from Friday's 3.86 million and was the lightest since March 29 when 3.29 million shares changed hands.

Experts there expressed the announcement of the variation in Bykovsky's orbit said his maximum altitude, originally 146 miles, was now 125.5 miles. His minimum altitude dropped from 112.4 miles to 102.5 miles.

After she went into orbit Sunday, Miss Tereshkova's maximum and minimum altitudes were given as 144 miles and 113 miles.

Orbit Change

The change in Bykovsky's orbit was noted by Western tracking stations. Experts there expressed the belief the variation was the result of a maneuver. They had no ideas on the purpose of the maneuver.

Bykovsky went into orbit in his Vostok 5 space craft at 3 p.m. Friday. After 72 hours in space he covered more than 12 million miles and orbited 49 times.

There was no report of any change in the flight of the world's first space woman. She had circles under her eyes in live television pictures, indicating some fatigue after more than a day in space. But she kept smiling for the camera inside her space craft. The newspaper Izvestia reported she doffed on Sunday night and had to be awakened.

The space twins reported seeing each other but there has been no such report from Miss Tereshkova and Bykovsky.

Cosmonauts Sleep

At 9:30 Monday night, Tass reported: "The cosmonauts are going to sleep so as to meet the dawn of the next day together with their compatriots."

"The earth wishes them good night. The earth expects its heroes to come back with victory."

Izvestia reported from the ground control center that it had been determined a woman can stand weightlessness and a prolonged stay in space just as well as a man.

It quoted a prominent Soviet physiologist as saying: "The organism of the woman as well as the organism of the man can rather easily stand the weightlessness and stay in outer space."

The Soviet government newspaper said the scientist was reporting on the basis of information received from the male and female cosmonauts.

Comparative Test

A comparative analysis of the functioning of a man and woman in space was described previously as one of the chief aims of the flight. Another was to perfect the functioning of the space craft.

The Russians never did say they had intended Bykovsky and Miss Tereshkova, a 26-year-old former factory worker, to link their space ships in space.

The fact that Miss Tereshkova, who holds the military rank of junior lieutenant, is not believed to be a trained pilot led to doubts that a hook-up would be attempted.

But just the launching of a woman into space electrified Russians.

PROSPECT, Pa. (AP)—State police said a 44-year-old woman fatally shot her five children and husband, then killed herself at their home near this Butler County town Monday.

State police said Mrs. Joseph J. Gregor Sr., used a .42 gauge shotgun.

They said the bodies of three of the children were found in the living room while 19-month-old twin boys were discovered in their cribs.

Mrs. Gregor's body was found lying near that of her 52-year-old husband in the kitchen. Police said she triggered the shotgun on herself by attaching a piece of string from the trigger to a toe.

Scranton To Be Favorite Son

HARRISBURG (AP)—Gov. Scranton said Monday he would head the Pennsylvania delegation as a favorite son candidate at the Republican convention, as a means of strengthening the Commonwealth's hand in naming a party candidate for president.

The governor stressed that he is not seeking the nomination himself—a position he has consistently adopted since becoming governor. But the new favorite son position was a break with his earlier statements taking himself completely out of the field of nomination prospects.

Wallace Blames JFK For Strife

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama charged President Kennedy Monday with being responsible for the "situation existing in Tuscaloosa, Ala."

The governor's statement came in a telegram to the President in answer to one from Kennedy calling on Wallace "to take the necessary steps" that would permit release of Alabama's federalized when Wallace made his "stand in the schoolhouse door" at the university last week when two Negroes were enrolled there.

Appalachian Area Aid Talks

HARRISBURG (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., U.S. undersecretary of commerce, came to Harrisburg Monday to explore ways the federal government may assist the Appalachian states, in meeting their economic problems.

It was one in a series of individual visits Roosevelt is making to states surrounded by the Appalachian mountain range running from Alabama north through Pennsylvania.

He told Gov. Scranton and a roomful of dignitaries there to greet him:

"We have found the education level in the Appalachian areas to be almost two years behind the national average."

Philly Picketing May Resume

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Representatives of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People walked out of a meeting with craft unions and contractors Monday, and threatened to resume the picketing of school construction sites.

Curtis Carson, chairman of the NAACP's Legal Redress Committee, charged the unions and employers with bad faith and having "no intentions of hiring Negroes."

Negroes Sit-In With Candy Bars

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two Negro women and a white man from Cleveland staged a sit-in in Gov. James A. Rhodes' inner office Monday.

They said they will not leave until the fair housing law, House Bill 308, is brought to the floor of the General Assembly for action. They said they have candy bars to sustain them.

Supreme Court Bans Bible Reading, Lord's Prayer In U.S. Public Schools

Many Churchmen Accept Decision

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Many church leaders accepted the Supreme Court's school prayer and bible-reading decisions Monday as a call for renewed emphasis on religious instruction in the home and church.

New Education Board Created

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton signed into law Monday a key feature of his education program—a measure establishing a 17-member policy-making State Board of Education.

At the same time the chief executive said the political make-up of the board "certainly" would be bi-partisan. His appointments for the new agency will be sent to the Senate for confirmation soon, the governor indicated.

The new law abolishes the policy-making functions of the Department of Public Instruction and assigns responsibility for policy to the new agency.

The full board will be comprised of two seven-member councils—one for primary and secondary education and one for higher education. Three other appointees will round out the full board.

The superintendent of public instruction—the chief policy-maker under previous law—is given no responsibility for policy under the new law, but will be the chief administrative officer of the new board without a vote.

Parents, Church Teach Religion

GREENSBURG, Pa. (AP)—The bishop of the Greensburg Roman Catholic Diocese said Monday the U. S. Supreme Court decision on bible reading in public schools puts the responsibility of religious education on parents and church groups.

The Rt. Rev. William G. Conare said Monday's ruling that such bible reading was unlawful "will alert parents of every religious persuasion, I hope, to a serious problem we all must face."

With even a token recognition of God eliminated from public schools, Bishop Connare said, "the problem becomes totally that of the home and the church."

"Even more, the role of the religious school becomes strikingly evident to all who think about God and our responsibility," he said.

Senate Approves Industry Funds

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Senate unanimously approved Monday Scranton administration legislation that would liberalize financial aid provided by the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority.

The bill was approved without debate. It had been one of the industrial development measures stressed by the governor in an address to the legislature several months ago.

The House approved the measure early this month. The Senate made one minor change in wording of the bill, which will require House concurrence.

As approved, the bill would broaden the kinds of companies eligible for PIDA aid to include research and development organizations. They also would be eligible to receive up to 45 per cent of their costs in state loans, compared to up to 40 per cent for other kinds of business activity.

The local industrial development agency would have to put up only 5 per cent of the cost of a project for research and development institutions, compared to 10 per cent for other business enterprises.

The measure is aimed at attracting research and development organizations to the state.

Steel Contract Not In The Bag

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Policy makers of the United Steelworkers meet Tuesday amid indications that they may call for reopening of contracts with the basic steel industry.

This developed Monday as the union's 34-man International Executive Board held a preliminary session to appraise the results of informal contract talks.

USW President David J. McDonald—referring to published reports that a settlement was "in the bag"—told newsmen, "As of now the only thing I have in my pocket is a package of pipe cleaners."

Papers Cannot Reject Ads

BEDFORD, Pa. (AP)—An advertising executive emphasized Monday that newspapers cannot afford to reject advertising by out-of-state savings and loan associations.

Any such agreement by publishers and Pennsylvania associations could be termed collusion and action in restraint of free trade, said John R. Corbett, advertising manager of the Williamsport Sun-Gazette.

His remarks came at the opening session of the two-day Managers' Conference of the Pennsylvania Savings and Loan League. "In addition," Corbett continued, "the flow of advertising from these out-of-state, less-restricted associations is momentarily attractive to an industry losing national dollars to television."

Stokes Mill Closed To Public

STROUDSBURG — Stokes Mill has been closed off to the public. Yesterday employees of the Stroudsburg Municipal Authority completed posting no trespassing signs on the property along the Brodheads Creek at Stokes Mill.

Russell Hughes, president of the authority, said, "The action was taken as a result of correspondence with our insurance company. The public has been using the area as a public bathing place and if someone were to be injured or drown the authority would be held responsible."

"This is a private property and not a public bathing place. If it

Clergy See No Wrong Avoiding Ways To Keep Near-Dead Alive

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)

—Bishop Fulton J. Sheen said he saw no moral wrong in avoiding extraordinary measures aimed at keeping alive a patient in the final stage of a fatal or seemingly hopeless illness.

"If I were dying . . ." said the Roman Catholic Bishop, "and they had tubes in me to keep me alive, I would ask them that the tubes be taken out . . . I see no moral issue."

He made the remark just before a special session on "Medicine and Religion" at the annual meeting this week of the American Medical Association.

A Protestant physician, Dr. Edward H. Rynearson, also expressed opposition to the use of extraordinary means to keep dying patients alive.

At a joint conference both men stressed that their stand had nothing to do with "mercy killing."

They said all ordinary means should be taken to keep the apparently hopelessly ill patient alive.

No Reference

Neither made any reference to treatments given Pope John XXIII in the terminal stages of his illness.

Bishop Sheen said he would urge relatives of a patient to take the doctor's advice on whether a patient should be kept alive by extraordinary methods.

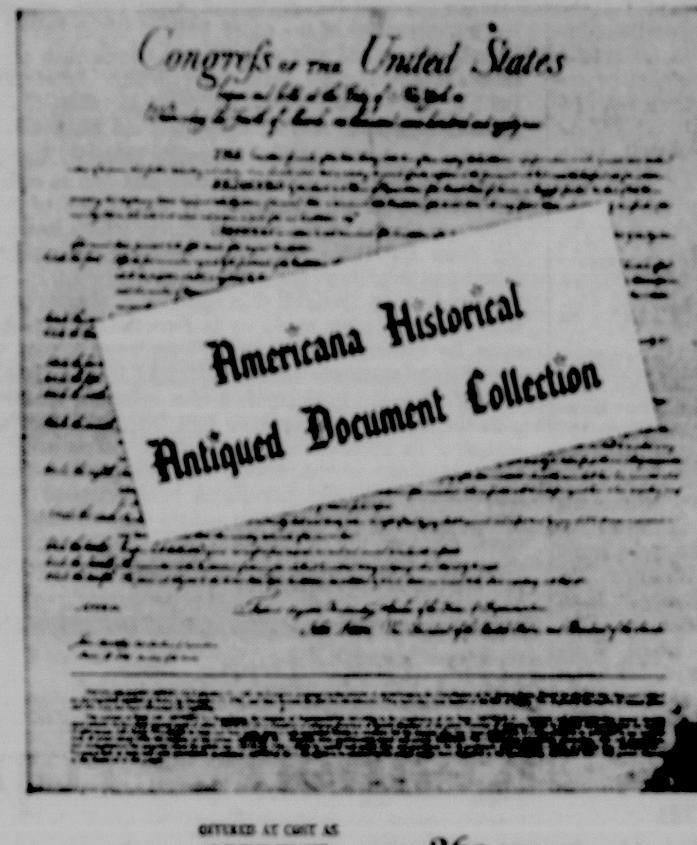

"There is nothing to be proud of in keeping an unconscious patient alive for 11 years . . . if you put a patient in a constant care unit, it's just about impossible for him to die."

As an example, he said the widow of a prominent millionaire actually was kept alive, though completely unconscious, for 11 years, and he said:

"If anyone can take pride in that, I don't understand it."

Court's Bible Reading Edict:

Mixed Emotions In County

By JEFF COX
Daily Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Reaction yesterday of Monroe County school superintendents and clergymen to the Monday Supreme Court decision to ban Bible readings in public schools ran from approval to stern opposition.

At the state school level, state superintendents of public instruction Charles H. Boehm recommended that schools begin their day with a period of silent meditation.

He said that he interpreted the Supreme Court decision to mean that all Bible reading and religious services are out. He would replace these with a short meditative period and a program of inspirational music, art, or literature. He added that a short talk on morality or ethics might be planned. "God and Religion will remain," he said.

The four Monroe County public school superintendents agreed that they will abide by the letter of the law and do whatever the state decides after consideration of the court decision.

Earl F. Groner, superintendent of Stroud Union School District, said: "I wonder whether Baccalaureate ceremonies will be allowed after this decision?

I actually don't see how the Supreme Court could rule other than it did. We might not be getting the most for our kids this way, but legally and technically the decision was correct."

Will Abide By Verdict

Carl Secor, supervising principal of the East Stroudsburg Joint School District, said: "The Supreme Court has rendered the decision and we will abide with it."

Secor felt that the court was making an opinion and it was their prerogative to do so. He felt that since the decision is made, it is no use to grous about it.

Willis Dunlap, supervising principal of the Pocono Mountain Joint District, said: "I imagine this will cause quite a stir around the country. I was hoping that it wouldn't happen. I can't see where the Bible reading has any undue influence religiously."

John C. Mills, supervising principal of the Pleasant Valley Jointure, said: "I always like the readings because it meant the children were recognizing a supreme being at the beginning of each day. It is a good way to start the day in this material age. I'm not criticizing the Supreme Court, however. I know that since the case was brought to them there was no other way they could decide."

Religious Side

On the religious side, neither the Catholic or Jewish clergy were available for comment.

The Rev. John A. Bollier, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Stroudsburg, was all for the decision.

"I expected this would be the decision," Mr. Bollier said. "I feel that now it is all the more encumber upon the churches and the homes to provide for the Christian education of the children and youth."

"I would agree with the rightness of the decision because I don't think public funds should be used to propagate any particular religion. Our Presbyterian Assembly at Des Moines last month issued a report on church and state which took the position that the wall should be high between the two and that any religion that is propagated by force through the use of public funds is not of faith that is freely accepted."

"It actually weakens the church and its witness to society," Mr. Bollier added. "It is recognizing the fact that we are a pluralistic society and not a Christian society as such."

Gradual Decadence

The Rev. William F. Wunder, pastor of the Grace Lutheran Church of East Stroudsburg, said: "The scripture tells us, 'He that is not with God is against God.' The decision to remove Bible reading seems to me to parallel the gradual decadence of the American way of life."

"We who love God should become more vocal lest the minority tell us where to head in other areas of our supposed freedom of religion, not from religion," he concluded. "Rome fell and America is not above the possibility."

The Rev. Harold C. Eaton, pastor of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church, was most concerned. "My view is just exactly that of my Bishop," Mr. Eaton said. "The decision inveighs against the majority in the U. S. and is a limitation on the development of Christian morals so vital to our nation's stability. I regard it as undemocratic and a miscarriage of the highest provisions of justice."

The opinion of Dr. Rocco J. Tresolini, professor of constitutional law and head of the law department at Lehigh University in Bethlehem, feels that the case is a "tempest in a teapot."

"The only way the court could have ruled to continue Bible readings in the schools is if they hung the case on the point that the reading wasn't composed by a public official."

"Remembering last year's prayer case," Tresolini said, "the prayer was found objectional because it was written by a public official. But in the present case, the court was almost foreclosed by the first amendment to rule the way it did."

Tempest in Teapot

"Actually, the case is probably not as important as most people think—it's a tempest in a teapot. It will, however, cause a whole new series of attacks on the court from citizens."

Tresolini said that the Supreme Court in the present case was simply holding to an absolute not heretofore applied to the first amendment.

"If you'll look at Justice Stewart Potter's dissent in this case and in the prayer case last year," Tresolini said, "you'll find him saying that the court is making the state an enemy of religion. Potter feels that the court is placing too much emphasis on the phrase 'establishment of religion' in its decisions."

Tresolini is the author of "American Constitutional Law," a basic textbook in many college constitutional law courses.

Township Aides Hear State Heads

TAMIMENT — The 38th Annual Conference of the State Assn. of Township Commissioners at Tamiment, which began Sunday and goes until Wednesday, is "the largest ever," a conference spokesman said yesterday.

Raymond P. Shafer, Lt. Governor of Pennsylvania, yesterday spoke to 668 delegates yesterday. The previous high attendance total was 550.

Shafer spoke on the importance of municipal governments. Following his address, Henry D. Harral, state secretary of highways, spoke on the function of the Department of Highways.

He will make a study of all state highways and try to find ways to improve each of them.

Sunday registration and a cocktail party was held. Yesterday, after the opening exercises and the speeches, George C. Lowe of the Atlantic Refining Co. spoke to the group in the afternoon on highway safety.

Last night there was a party, buffet supper, floor show, and dinner for the delegates.

The spokesman for the conference said that since this was the largest attendance ever, it spoke highly of the region as an area which can draw people to such conventions.

Today Judge John G. Brosky will head a panel on police problems and Fred Hershey of the Dept. of Internal Affairs, will give a legislative report. On Wednesday the liquid fuel tax will be discussed.

Also on Wednesday, J. Harvey Shillingford will head a panel on urban redevelopment. A ladies program was run consecutively with the men's panels and talks.

Mountainhome Methodist Church Pastor Accepts UCC Assignment

MOUNTAINHOME — A minister who balked against a call to the Mountainhome Methodist Church will become pastor of Grace United Church of Christ, Eastern July 1.

"This came as a shock to me. I had no thought of making a move from Mountainhome Methodist Church causing the next move — the appointment system.

"I have no quarrels with any of their theology nor other matters of church government, except as they relate to the appointment system. And indeed, there are many strong points to that system."

"Thirdly, no quarrels with any individuals have led me to this move. In removing me from Halmerville the district superintendent and bishop acted in full accord with the policy and practice of the Methodist Church. I have high regard for these men and recognize that there are many difficulties in their offices that are not apparent to the rest of us."

"Second, I wish to make it clear that there is only one point of difference of opinion with the Mountainhome Methodist Church causing the next move — the appointment system.

Daughter, Aide Share Walter Estate

EASTON — U. S. Rep. Francis E. Walter of Easton left his estate in equal shares to his daughter, Mrs. Constance Mack of Chevy Chase, Md., and his executive assistant, Miss Ruth Miskell. It was disclosed yesterday.

The will was admitted to probate in Northampton County Courthouse. Walter, who had served the 13th Congressional District for 38 years, died May 31.

The size of the estate is believed as undetermined.

The will stipulated: "Because an order of the district court of the District of Columbia has given the property rights of my wife, I am free to dispose of my property as I wish." Walter and his wife, the former May Doyle, were separated.

Circus To Feature Clowns

STROUDSBURG — Lucio, the world-famed bareback riding clown, will be featured by Christian-Wallace Bros. Circus when it appears at the Stroud Township Field June 21. The Kiwanis Club of the Stroudsburgs are sponsoring the presentation, which will include two performances: one at 2 p.m., one at 8 p.m.

Pete Christiani, general manager of the show, has commissioned his brother Lucio to stage new types of clown numbers.

Lucio sees the need for the special type of humor needed in this type of presentation.

He points out that only certain types of humor are applicable to the circus situation, for there are no provisions for the use of special lights, microphones or cameras as in radio, television, or the theater. For this reason, Lucio has enlisted the aid of well-known clowns, Al Sherwin, Bucky Lehi, and DeDo Michael.

Italian clown Phen-Ochlo is also scheduled to make his first American performance.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican has issued three stamps commemorating the vacant seat period between the death of Pope John XXIII and the election of the next Pope.

Education Needs Interpreter Today

HARRISBURG (AP) — Education is an education in itself.

It is rooted in America's folklore that education means "the three Rs."

Thus having neatly catalogued that American institution, the school, we could devote the introspective moments of boyhood to pondering the wondrous nature that provided warm spring puddles in which to splash barefoot.

It comes as a jarring note to the writer to return to the subject years later and splash in the cold puddles of such subjects as "needed research in the teaching of English," or "language laboratory facilities."

There is the mysterious, esoteric language of the educator himself, "in-service training," "distributive education" being tossed around with all the familiarity and ease of a recipe for three-minute eggs.

No one should enter a conference room filled with educators without an interpreter.

Exotic Moments

The field has its exotic moments, however.

The Navy lured a generation into blue with a slogan about seeing the world.

End To Revere

The educator writer can whisk across continents in a moment by browsing through such booklets as "Higher Education in Poland," "Development of Education in Venezuela," or "Soviet Training Programs in Africa," provided by the U. S. Office of Education.

Or, he can travel backwards and forwards through time with "Technology in Education, 1960-1960," "Talent and Tomorrow's Teachers."

If you like your reading straight-from-the-shoulder in the tenor of the novels of social protest, there is "Role of the School in Prevention of Juvenile Delinquency," or "Paying for better schools."

The last-named, rescued from a perilously growing clutter on the desk top, is a view of education by a group of educators and businessmen known as the Committee for Economic Development.

Its report, now a few years old, had a curiously familiar ring in re-reading.

No Contract Let On Rt. 940 Project

four kinds of action to improve public schools:

"Immediate reorganization of small school systems into effective units of local government is required in most states, including almost all of the most populous states . . . a complete school program can hardly be conducted by a unified school system with much less than 2,000 students. Substantial educational advantages continue to accrue until a school system has perhaps 25,000 students."

In most states, the state government should take over from the local districts a large share of the financial burden of schools.

They were from J. H. Beers, Inc., RD 2, $1,319,338; Herbert R. Imbt, Inc., State College, $1,219,161; No. 1 Contracting Corp. of Delaware, West Pittston, $1,173,691, and James D. Morrissey, Inc., Philadelphia, $1,169,608.

A highways department spokesman said the bids were received Thursday, but no contract awarded. There was no indication when the contract will be awarded.

The project calls for a divided concrete highway, 24 feet wide on each side of a concrete median four feet wide, from a point southwest of Pocono Summit to a connection with Route 611 in Mt. Pocono.

The committee that presented these four points included representatives of such well-known companies as Sears, Roebuck and Co.; Inland Steel; Minut Maid; Detroit Edison; John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance; Standard Oil of New Jersey; Eastman Kodak; General Telephone and Electronics.

Scattered through the list are such names as Fred Foy of Koppers Co., Pittsburgh; Thomas B. McCabe of Scott Paper Co., Chester, and Howard C. Peterson, Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Co.

There was considerable dissent among the 32 persons involved in the report over the federal aid recommendation.

It is 42 miles long and includes a four-span bridge to be built to carry the highway over Legislative Route 171 and the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad.

"NEW LIFE" IN JAPAN

TOKYO (AP) — A Baptist evangelist crusade in Japan — the "New Life Movement" — has concluded with a total of 22,214 "decisions for Christ" in a five-week period.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

And what was the first thing Ruth Brown told me about California? Not Disneyland which she and Florence Berryman didn't visit; not Las Vegas, where they did spend a long weekend; not Fisherman's Wharf where they had the gold-miners special: eggs, bacon and oysters in an omelet.

That all came out later — the thing that she was most excited about was crossing the Oakland Bridge on Interstate 80 and realizing that our own short-way has already started from the Pacific to reach out toward us. It all goes to prove that nobody looks through the same eyes as anybody else.

Unless you'd been living for years with the vicissitudes of the Stroudsburg to Sharon Shortway, Interstate 80 would be just another number on the road map.

And speaking of road maps, Route 22 into New York is not one of my favorite roads — sure, it's four lanes and sometimes six and all of them full of towering trucks — at least in the early morning heading for the Newark Airport.

Like a dogie caught in a stampede, there were times when I figured that all I had to do was retract my wheels and I would have been swept right into the Holland Tunnel. As it was, I kept my wheels down and my eyes glued to the one-car-space which was all that was allotted to me ahead.

Flashing by on the sidelines were shopping centers and malls from sports shops, centers for shoes, for fences, for lamps, for cars, for gas. May be they get some dare-devil customers, but I'd as soon step out of an elevator between floors as try to get out of that traffic.

Maybe Interstate 80 may develop some of the same awesome solidity of traffic, but right now the part that goes through Monroe County looks clean and uncluttered and serene — especially when you're on your way home.

Brooklyn, N. Y. — Rev. Roland Ray Bowman, of 511 North Courtland St., East Stroudsburg, who is leaving as pastor of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, Stroudsburg, for missionary work in Africa, was married on June 8 at 3 p.m. in the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church.

80 Coaches Attend ESSC Grid Clinic

By KEN O'BRIEN
Daily Record Sports Editor

EAST STROUDSBURG — The opening session of the Eastern Pennsylvania Coaches Clinic at East Stroudsburg State College yesterday was a busy pencil-pushing session for nearly 80 coaches representing both collegiate and scholastic ranks.

One of the busiest in that department was John Brunner, former ESSC quarterback and fullback who has just taken over the head coaching duties at Middletown (N. Y.) High School. Brunner succeeded John Whitehead, another ex-ESSC gridder and former Strood Union High School coach. Whitehead also attended the morning session.

Numbered among the coaches attending the first of the four-day clinic were Jack Kist and assistants Jerry Fritz and Marlin Martz of East Stroudsburg High School, and Jerry Stulgatis and his Strood Union assistant, Dick Merring.

Also jotting a few notes of his own was Jack Gregory, head football coach at ESSC and assistant to Marty Baldwin in directing the 20th annual affair.

Don Malinak of Lock Haven High School, Ray Graves of Florida University, and Chalmers (Bump) Elliott of the University of Michigan were the principal lecturers at the opening session.

Malinak, described by Baldwin as "one of the finest high school coaches in the country," discussed both offensive and defensive play, centering almost all his attention on the ends.

"Not many teams in this country are good enough offensively to win many ballgames without a solid defense," he opined.

"We adjust our defenses to all types of offenses we expect to run up against," he said, adding: "A defensive shift is good — it controls the line a lot and is good for morale . . . a team many times gains confidence when using an automatic shift."

He also declared a team "must be well-organized because you can't outsmart many coaches as anyways — they're all smart today."

Show Film

Graves also showed the group a 30-minute film of his Florida team's defensive play.

Blocking Techniques

The Lock Haven grid mentor also discussed the various intricacies of blocking under different offensive and defensive situations, proper ways of catching passes

"Basically," he suggested, "get something as simple as possible which can be changed often and easily. Offensive patterns change rapidly every year and adjustments must be made accordingly."

"We have standardized our opponents' defenses," he added, "by using simple adjustments from a basic offensive formation."

The schedule for today's session is:

8:20 a.m. — Practice methods and drills — Outlining effective pass defense; Abe Smith, Plainfield (N. J.) High School.

9:20-9:30 a.m. — Visit exhibits.

9:30-10:50 a.m. — Concealed yardage in kicking game; Graves and Rodgers, Florida.

10:50-11 a.m. — Visit exhibits.

11 a.m.-12:20 p.m. — Defensive planning; Elliott, Michigan.

12:20-12:30 p.m. — Visit exhibits.

12:30-1:15 p.m. — Lunch, college dining room.

1:15-1:30 p.m. — Visit exhibits.

1:30-3 p.m. — Training lecture and demonstration; Romeo, U. S. Naval Academy.

The fans, almost to a man, will be rooting for the London cockney to flatten brash Cassius with his thumping left hook. But not many of them expect to see the upset occur.

A Bonanza

Clay's poetic and non-poetic utterances have steamed up the usually hard to rile Britons and turned the promotion into a bonanza for Jack Solomons.

If $35,000 pay their way in, it will break the record of $44,000 set in 1948 at White City Stadium for the World light heavyweight title fight between American Gus Lesnevich, the champion, and Freddie Mills of Britain. Mills won the crown on a 15-round decision.

The 21-year-old Clay has won all 18 of his fights, 14 by knockouts, since he turned pro after winning the light heavyweight title in the 1960 Olympics at Rome. He is ranked as the No. 2 challenger to heavyweight champion Sonny Liston, "that big, ugly bear" as Clay calls him.

Cooper, 29, has a 27-1 record, including four straight victories. The London plasterer has scored 18 knockouts and has stopped five times. Ole "energy has pretty good power in his left hook. But he also has a chin of fine China quality.

Ranked Fourth

The Blood Briton is ranked fourth by the World Boxing Association and eighth by Ring Magazine.

"We've got a little plan to deal with Mr. Clay," said Cooper, speaking more like a manager than a fighter. "We're supposed to be slow at the start. But we can adjust—we'll be ready to deal with Clay's speed."

Clay is fast with fast hands. He's unbeaten, so he must be good, but he isn't invincible."

To which Cassius retorted: "Cooper may be ready for speed, but he ain't going to be ready for me—I'm the fastest heavyweight in the world-like greased lightning. I'm going to take him out."

And if anyone is inclined to think Cassius talks for nothing, they'd better think again. The Louisville youngster reportedly has been guaranteed $75,000, or 27½ per cent of the gate. The figures are unofficial as Solomons never discloses his receipts or purses to the public.

Clay Rated 4-1 Favorite

LONDON (AP) — Undefeated Cassius Clay, the self-proclaimed "greatest heavyweight of them all," was a 4-1 favorite Monday to make British heavyweight champion Henry Cooper his 19th victim before a possible record British boxing crowd Tuesday night.

A capacity turnout of 35,000 may pay $80,000 to see if the Louisville Lip can make good his boast that "Cooper will fall in five" in Wembley Stadium. The 10-round will start about 3:30 p.m., EST.

The fans, almost to a man, will

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

TUESDAY, June 18, 1963
March 21 to April 19 (Aries) — Take time off; if you do not, you could find yourself attempting too much, doing things that really belong later. Avoid taxing endurance, mental capacity; you know the answer.

APRIL 21 to May 19 (Taurus) — With strong Venus rays coming your way, do not mistake glitter and false glamour for the real thing. Take due time looking over your schedule and let no birds get away.

MAY 22 to June 20 (Gemini) — Tighten the reins in exploitation, promotion, except where careful preparation can pertainingly assist. Artistry may tend to extremes, and practicality to stinting. Recruit a few helpers.

JUNE 21 to July 20 (Cancer) — Increasingly fine Moon aspects boost your personality. Bringing gaps will be easier, more easily filled. You are eager and attuned.

JULY 21 to August 19 (Leo) — Alternating vibrations. Listen, hear thoroughly what is being planned. Observe motives, what has been done. What you worked in the past. Take the bill from there.

SEPTEMBER 21 to October 20 (Virgo) — The innate stability of this sign is needed in all areas now. Rewards in proportion to man's effort are ample, though the value of a hint quicker, if of course, you are eager and attuned.

OCTOBER 21 to November 19 (Libra) — This is a good month for you, and today is one of your leader-type whips. Scholastic work, shrewd attitudes, gain. Advancement in skills, authorship favored for big strides.

NOVEMBER 20 to December 19 (Scorpio) — Set a goal for each day much as you do for an extended period of time, and determine not to let even one hour go below it. What you can do you can keep whole week in order.

DECEMBER 20 to January 18 (Capricorn) — Day finds you more "out of the shell" and the deep blue sea" as the complaint goes. You won't, if you adhere to rudiments of health, though you may stay intensely co-ordinated.

JANUARY 19 to February 17 (Aquarius) — The control of feelings, ambitions, will be a vital part of the success picture. Continue a good routine and give it added zest. Put aside anguish, re-sets.

FEBRUARY 18 to March 20 (Pisces) — Moving rapidly from one point or another to others requires attention, concentration, prescribed industry. Could be YOUR day for brilliant thinking and doing. Intelligent show.

YOU BORN TODAY: On the cusp of Gemini-Cancer, the first sign was born on the second. Mindless restlessness, desire need for education, knowledge characterize your make-up. The final emanation of this sign, with its better side, contrasting faults, in a leader, an able booster, family, community, business, public relations, are probably your guides for tempting take-a-chance periods, and you can turn on or off your gambling sense. You are a gambler, but when you seek answers you realize are available, and yet are hidden by undiscerning minds. Look for bright, well-motivated activity by day and unwise, excessive restlessness in p.m. Evenness, smooth sailing promote your success, but you take suggestions easily because you ARE ready for improvement, eager for bettering anything. Should have a second sign, which interesting and that employs your creative imagination (or a hobby for your down time). You are subject to nervous strain. Birthdate of: M. Daladier, statesman; Jeanette MacDonald, singer-actress; Eros Stewart, Marquess of Londonderry.
